

F. Treatment record

A treatment record must be kept during the course of treatment. All important data such as equipment parameters, form of anaesthesia used and medication must be listed. The intensity setting and the number of shockwaves must be documented.

In addition, the times and parameters (kV, mA) of the X-ray system are to be documented. Possible side effects, complications, etc. are to be included in the record.